Brain Vascular

Brain vascular diseases are very common problems worldwide, specially stroke, and very often this diseases become complicated with sequels or causing death. The endovascular approach diminishes the chances of repeating the occurrence of the disease and its complications.

Other problems are vascular malformations or aneurysms that must be treated, the major neurosurgery with a high risk can be avoided with the endovascular approach, without opening the skull, with a minor risk of complications, and a much better outcome than that of the surgery.

The brain endovascular approach can be made in a Wide range of age and in our experience we account for people of all ages, kids as well as older people.
